Engineering Project
Final Instructions

• Think about the title and see if a better one is possible.

• Go over your abstract and make sure it tells the reader what he/she can expect to find in the report in a cogent, appealing, yet succinct, narrative style.

• Go over the conclusions and make sure the key findings of your work are all collected and summarized.

• Add the actual title of your report to the link in your webpage.

• Post the final version of your report next to a folder named “Other” containing all other materials associated with your project.

• Once you do all this, send me a note.

• Be prepared to produce the required package of final deliverables on short notice but DO NOT print hardcopies nor burn CDs until I tell you so.

• We should find some time to meet soon after that to discuss, if need there be.
